Once when I was a teenager, my father and I were standing in line to buy tickets for the circus. Finally, there was only one family between us and the ticket counter. This family made a big impression on me.

There (be) eight children in the family. I could tell that they didn't have a lot of money. Their clothes were clean, but not expensive. Their manners were very good. They were standing in line in twos behind their parents. They were standing hand in hand and talking excitedly about the clowns, elephants, and so on. I said to my father in a low voice, "They have never been to the circus before. They look so excited." Their father and mother were holding hands. They looked very happy and proud (ア)to be there with their children.

The ticket lady asked the father how many tickets he wanted. [A] He said, "Today I brought all my family here. I need eight children's tickets and two adult tickets." [B]

The ticket lady told him the price. Then the man's wife stopped (hold) his hand and her head dropped. The man's lip began (イ)to quiver and he asked, "How much did you say?" [C] The man didn't have enough money. I didn't know how he would tell his children that he didn't have enough money (ウ)to buy the tickets. [D]

My dad saw what was going on, and put his hand into his pocket. [E] He pulled out a $20 bill and dropped it on the ground. [were / others / money / we / rich / enough / to / to / not / give]. Then my father picked up the bill, and said "Excuse me, sir, but this (fall) out of your pocket."

I thought the man knew what was going on. I was sure that he appreciated the help with his difficult situation. He looked at my father, and took both of my dad's hands. His lip was quivering and a tear was running down his cheek. He said, "Thank you, thank you, sir. This really means a lot to me and my family."

My father and I went back to our car (エ)to drive home. We didn't see the circus that night, but I was not angry. I was not sad, either. My father knew that our family had enough money for life. I still remember that heart-warming day.

(注)	impression	印象	in twos	2人ずつ	clown	ピエロ
	drop	がっくりと落ちる	quiver	震える	bill	紙幣
	appreciate	～を感謝する	situation	状況	run	(涙が)流れる
	cheek	ほお	heart-warming	心温まる

Ben : Hi, Lucy. Do you have any plans for this summer?

Lucy : Oh, nothing special. How about you, Ben? What are you going to do this summer?

Ben : I'm going to work at a bookstore in July.

Lucy : Really? Why did you decide to do that?

Ben : Well, I'm going to travel around Japan with my family in August, so I need to make some money for the trip.

Lucy : Great. You know, I'd really like to visit Kyoto someday. Are you planning to go there, too?

Ben : Maybe. Listen, why don't we join us?

Lucy : Wow! That's a good idea. But I'll have to talk to my parents about it first.

Ben : OK. Let's talk about it more later.
